

SOJOURN CELLARS
2010 PINOT NOIR – RODGERS CREEK
VINEYARD – SONOMA COAST

Vineyard: Our 2010 Rodgers Creek Vineyard Pinot noir shows familiar earthy and mushroom elements that have consistently exuded from the unique soils and dominant Pommard clone. The site is well-suited for Pinot noir, sitting high on a ridge in the heart of the Petaluma Gap and taking the full brunt of wind and thick fog that define this cool climate zone. Two blocks of the Pommard Pinot noir clone form the foundation of this wine, with clone 777 adding a layer of bright fruit. The vines are grown in light chalky volcanic ash soils on steep inclines, causing natural vine stress and resulting in high levels of concentration. In 2010, we whole-cluster fermented a portion of the primary Pommard clone block, adding aromatic complexity and verve.
